It's the best - I want to do it every day! How is everything at home?

Ok she asked me if I was seeing someone else last night... Said the letter was bothering her. I said no and she seemed to except that. She really wants time with me. It's just hard....

That's understandable - you're amazing - who wouldn't want time with you? I know I do! You've thought it through & are going about all of this the best way you can - for everybody. Stay strong - I know it's not easy. I'll always be here for you when you need me. I think [redacted] is starting to suspect too. He hasn't come out & said it but is acting strangely. It's very hard to hide the way we feel - not only towards them but also towards each other. It must be fairly obvious something / someone outside of our marriages is making us happy & full of life again!
